

What are the Goals and Objectives of Law Schools in Their Primary Role of Educating Students? What are We Educating Our Students For?

Prof. Jassim Ali Salem Alshamsi
United Arab Emirates University
College of Law
United Arab Emirates

The Goals and objectives of UAEU College of Law are as follows:

- a. Prepare students according to the latest educational and technical methods in order to competently and distinctively take over the various jobs in legal fields.
- b. Provide students with continued self learning abilities, criticizing mind, creativeness and use of modern technologies, ensuring their keen abiding by noble legal work ethics.
- c. Participate in bearing the message of thought and legal studies that clarifies the reality of legal concepts which they themselves represent the reality.
- d. Additionally, teach students the Islamic law to clarify the reality of Islam, emphasizing on its genuine ability to achieve humanity and develop current life away from atrocious extremism.
- e. Make genuine and innovative researches of scientific and practical value in the areas of jurisprudence, law and those in between.
- f. Provide scientific, research and training services to United Arab Emirates society including all its public and private institutions, and look forward to extend those services to the Arabian Gulf and Arab societies in general.
- g. Exchange scientific, practical and educational experiences with the various colleges, research and services centers within and outside the University

The study program objectives encompass the following items:

1. Produce a well qualified graduate capable of practicing the various legal tasks in United Arab Emirates at a very good level.
2. Produce a willing graduate, capable of continuous self learning and development of knowledge and skills.
3. Produce a willing graduate, capable of positive and effective participation and interaction within his work and community.
4. Produce a graduate who is bound to compliance with positive and genuine values of his society and profession, but open to other global cultures, and willing for positive interaction with them and benefiting in a safe manner.
5. Provide students with all the knowledge, skills and values leading to a graduate bearing all above characteristics.
6. Providing easy access to post graduate studies by offering appropriate programs that meet their research and professional ambitions, such as a post graduate program in arbitration, banking, human rights, etc, after studying the actual reality and demand on academic programs and specialties in the various branches of law.

In order to achieve these goals and objectives, proper means must be made available, either by preparing and developing faculty members, linking them with new knowledge in their respective disciplines. Developing the college administration and staff is also a requirement for achieving the goals and objectives by organizing workshops on regular basis. This has proved to be successful in this college. Another important factor is the availability of sufficient budget to make all these efforts and steps successful.

There should be ability and keenness in leading students towards connection and interaction with other students in other universities, but of same specialties, especially in other countries. This is what we are actively doing now.
