

IALS 2013 Annual Meeting
Experimentation and Innovation in Teaching Human Rights

Katsande Rosalie Kumbirai, University of Zimbabwe
Annika Rudmana, University of Stellenbosch
Presenter Matthew Frank Barney

Topic of Discussion: Experimentation and Innovation in Teaching Human Rights

- Imparting Human Rights education is still not been implemented in all law schools.
- HR Education for ethical background students – non availability of enough resources
- Human Rights is mostly opted as optionally.
- Integration of Human Rights in all courses, i.e. social justice, access to resources, concern of women's rights
- In Canada and New Zealand – HR is elective and it is incorporated in all curriculum courses. HR is seen as the main stream.
- Maori Issues and Human Rights in New Zealand.
- Challenges – Jobs in HR, existence of various other optional courses, more opportunities in corporate, less employment prospects
- In India – No reward for HR Jobs, Due to economic factor Human Rights gets distracted, very less HR Carrier opportunities.

- All Law Schools needs to look into the trend of Human Rights.
- There should be some international standards for Human Rights compliance.
- International Standards for Human Rights compliance through UN.
- National as well International initiatives in Human Rights education.
- Integration of Human Rights education should be made mandatory in all courses.
- Human Rights as Corporate Responsibility.
- Online Human Rights education Programme through e-conference and websites
- International Human Rights Compliance through national perspective.
- Human Rights education via social network, i.e. creation of Facebook pages like Constitutionally Speaking, Jurisprudence for Fun, etc.
- Human Rights education through internship at NGO/State Commission/National Commission on Human Rights.
- Moot Court on Human Rights to be made Human Rights.
- Research Funding is very low in Human Rights.
- Neighborhood law school programs on Human Rights conference and documentary preparations.
- Syllabus curriculum and examination pattern.
- Constitutional amendment with regard to Human Rights.

Conclusion

- Many interesting way of HR innovations.
- Integration of HR education in all fields of education.
- Branding of jurisdiction.
- Human Rights Education via social media, i.e. Facebook, Orkut, Twitter, etc
- Role of National and State Human Rights Commission in India